

1 HONORABLE RONALD B. LEIGHTON
2
3
4
5
6

7 UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
8 WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
9 AT TACOMA

10 ROSEMERE NEIGHBORHOOD
11 ASSOCIATION, COLUMBIA
12 RIVERKEEPER, and NORTHWEST
13 ENVIRONMENTAL DEFENSE
14 CENTER,
15

16 Plaintiffs,

17 v.
18

19 CLARK COUNTY, TOM MIELKE, in
20 his capacity as Clark County
21 Commissioner, MARC BOLDT, in his
22 capacity as Clark County Commissioner,
23 STEVE STUART, in his capacity as Clark
24 County Commissioner, and BILL
BARRON, in his capacity as Clark
County Administrator,
25

Defendants.

CASE NO. C11-5213-RBL
ORDER REQUESTING
ADDITIONAL BRIEFING ON LIMITED ISSUES

(Dkt. #16)

1 THIS MATTER is before the Court on Plaintiff Rosemere Neighborhood Association's¹
2 Motion for Partial Summary Judgment (Dkt. #16). The Motion seeks a ruling as a matter of law
3 that Clark County is violating the Clean Water Act by failing to comply with its Phase 1 NPDES
4 Permit. Clark County asks the Court to deny the Motion, arguing that this matter is not
5 justiciable. It also argues that its stormwater system complies with the modified permit, which it
6 claims is still valid.

7 Prior to Rosemere's citizen suit, the Washington Pollution Control Hearings Board
8 determined that Clark County's Permit Modification was "invalid." While the PCHB's decision
9 was on appeal to the Washington Court of Appeals, Rosemere brought this suit to enforce the 10 Phase 1 Permit. This Court stayed Rosemere's Motion for Partial Summary Judgment pending
11 the Court of Appeals' decision. During the stay, Ecology reissued the Phase 1 Permit. The 12 Court of Appeals affirmed the PCHB's decision, and this Court lifted the stay and re-noted
13 Rosemere's Motion.

14 The operative permit is now Ecology's 2012 Phase I Permit, which was issued after the 15 briefing on this Motion was complete. It appears to the Court that many of the issues raised in 16 the briefing are mooted, or at least impacted, by this new permit. For example, the County
17 curiously argues that the PCHB's reversal of its Agreed Order and Permit Modification has no
18 practical effect on its ability to continue operating under the authority of these documents. This 19 claim appears to be made moot by the issuance of a new Permit, which presumably does not 20 include the terms of either the Agreed Order or the Permit Modification. Furthermore, the 21 County's appeal of the PCHB's (allegedly meaningless) decision has ended. Accordingly, the 22

23
24 ¹ Columbia Riverkeeper and Northwest Environmental Defense Center are also Plaintiffs. For convenience, all are referenced as "Rosemere" in this Order.

1 Court asks the parties to submit additional briefing on the impact of the 2012 Phase 1 Permit on 2 the claims and defenses in this action.

3 I. BACKGROUND

4 Under the Clean Water Act, Clark County must operate a stormwater system that 5 complies with a National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) permit. Along with 6 other large local governments in Washington, Clark County is regulated as a Phase 1 permittee.

7 In January 2007, the Washington Department of Ecology issued a Phase 1 Permit that 8 applied to Clark County. Two years later, Clark County adopted a stormwater flow control
9 ordinance that violated the Phase 1 Permit. In January 2010, Clark County and Ecology entered
10 into an Agreed Order “to bring the County into compliance with . . . the Phase 1 Permit.” PCHB
11 Decision at 5–6, Brimmer Decl., Ex. A. Ecology then modified the Phase 1 Permit to include the 12 provisions of the Agreed Order for Clark County.

13 Rosemere appealed Clark County’s Agreed Order and Permit Modification to the 14 Washington Pollution Control Hearings Board. After a multi-day hearing, the PCHB determined
15 that the Agreed Order was “unlawful” and the Permit Modification was “invalid.” PCHB Order 16 at 1–2, Brimmer Decl., Ex. B. Accordingly, PCHB reversed and remanded the matter to 17 Ecology for further action.

18 Clark County appealed the PCHB’s rulings, and the Washington Court of Appeals 19 accepted direct review.

20 While the PCHB’s order was on appeal, Rosemere brought this citizen suit to enforce the 21 Phase 1 Permit. Rosemere moved for partial summary judgment, arguing that Clark County is 22 violating the Clean Water Act by not complying with the Phase 1 Permit. Clark County

1 responded that this matter is not justiciable, and that the County is complying with the Agreed
2 Order and Permit Modification, which are still valid.

3 On December 28, 2011, this Court stayed Rosemere's Motion pending the Court of 4 Appeals' decision. Order, Dkt. #36. It also enjoined Clark County from issuing any permit or 5 authorization that fails to meet the Phase 1 Permit's flow control standards. Id.

6 On August 1, 2012, Ecology reissued the Phase 1 Permit, with limited changes.²
7 Presumably the 2012 Phase 1 Permit does not include the terms of either the Agreed Order or the 8 Permit Modification. A month later, the Court of Appeals affirmed the PCHB's decision, ruling
9 in Rosemere's favor on all issues. Rosemere Neighborhood Ass'n v. Clark County, 290 P.3d 142
10 (Wash. App. Ct. 2012). This Court lifted the stay and re-noted Rosemere's Motion for Partial 11 Summary Judgment. Shortly thereafter, the Washington Supreme Court denied Clark County's 12 petition for review. Rosemere Neighborhood Ass'n v. Clark County, 297 P.3d 708 (Wash. 2013).

13 Because Ecology reissued the Phase 1 Permit in 2012—after the parties filed their briefs
14 in this matter—the Court asks the parties to submit additional briefing on the 2012 Phase 1 15 Permit's impact on Rosemere's claims and Motion. In the meantime, the Court can dispose of 16 some of the arguments, and will do so here.

17 II. DISCUSSION

18 A. Summary Judgment Standard.

19 Summary judgment is appropriate when, viewing the facts in the light most favorable to 20 the nonmoving party, there is no genuine issue of material fact which would preclude summary
21 judgment as a matter of law. Once the moving party has satisfied its burden, it is entitled to 22 summary judgment if the non-moving party fails to present, by affidavits, depositions, answers to 23

24 ² All NPDES permits must be renewed no less than once every five years. 33 U.S.C. § 1342(b)(1)(B).

1 interrogatories, or admissions on file, “specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for
 2 trial.” Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 324 (1986). “The mere existence of a scintilla of 3 evidence in support of the non-moving party’s position is not sufficient.” Triton Energy Corp. v.
 4 Square D Co., 68 F.3d 1216, 1221 (9th Cir. 1995). Factual disputes whose resolution would not
 5 affect the outcome of the suit are irrelevant to the consideration of a motion for summary
 6 judgment. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986). In other words, 7 “summary judgment should be granted where the nonmoving party fails to offer evidence from 8 which a reasonable [fact finder] could return a [decision] in its favor.” Triton Energy, 68 F.3d at 9 1221.

10 B. Clark County’s Justiciability Argument is Moot.

11 In its response brief to Rosemere’s Motion, Clark County argues that this matter is not 12 justiciable in light of the pending Court of Appeals decision. Def.’s Resp., Dkt. #26 at 21. Since
 13 then, the Court of Appeals affirmed the PCHB’s decision and the Washington Supreme Court
 14 denied review. Rosemere Neighborhood Ass’n v. Clark County, 290 P.3d 142 (Wash. App. Ct.
 15 2012), review denied, 297 P.3d 708 (Wash. 2013). Clark County’s justiciability argument is 16 moot and is not a basis for denying Rosemere’s Motion.

17 C. The Agreed Order and the Permit Modification are Not Valid.

18 Despite the PCHB’s clear holding to the contrary, Clark County argues that the Agreed
 19 Order and Permit Modification remain valid, because Ecology has taken no further action.
 20 Def.’s Resp., Dkt. #26 at 16. Clark County emphasizes that the Agreed Order was not vacated; it 21 was instead reversed and remanded—as though this distinction meant that it could, despite the 22 reversal, continue to operate under the parameters of the Agreed Order and Permit Modification
 23 without violating the Clean Water Act. Id.

1 Clark County's argument makes no sense. Although the PCHB remanded the matter to 2 Ecology for further action consistent with its order, the PCHB explicitly stated that the Agreed
3 Order was "unlawful" and the Permit Modification was "invalid." PCHB Order at 1–2, Brimmer
4 Decl., Ex. B. Following the PCHB's decision, Ecology even declared on its website that "Clark
5 County's Flow Control Mitigation Program is no longer . . . applicable." Brimmer Decl., Ex. E
6 at 2. The Agreed Order and Permit Modification are simply not valid, and the claim that that 7 conclusion has no practical effect is spurious. Clark County's alleged compliance with the 8 Agreed Order and Permit Modification is not a defense to Rosemere's Motion.

9 Furthermore, and in any event, Ecology has taken further action since the PCHB's
10 decision—Ecology reissued the Phase 1 Permit (with "limited changes") in 2012. The parties
11 have not addressed the impact of the 2012 Phase 1 Permit on Rosemere's claims or the County's 12 defenses on the core Clean Water Act violation claim in this case.

13 D. The Court Requests Additional Briefing on Limited Issues.

14 Because the parties have not yet addressed the impact of the 2012 Phase 1 Permit, and in 15 light of the Court's rejection of two of the County's defenses (above), the Court asks the parties
16 to submit additional briefing on the following issues:

17 • How does the 2012 Phase 1 Permit affect Rosemere's claims, Clark County's 18 defenses in this action, and Rosemere's pending motion?

19 • What are the parties' current contentions about Clark County's compliance with the 20 2012 Phase 1 Permit?

21 • Even if Clark County is currently complying with the 2012 Phase 1 Permit, what is 22 the effect of previous non-compliance on Rosemere's claims and motion?

1 The parties should file short briefs (no more than 6–8 pages) addressing these issues by 2 May 28, 2013.

3 IT IS SO ORDERED.

4 Dated this 15th day of May, 2013.

5
6

7 RONALD B. LEIGHTON
8 UNITED STATES DISTRICT JUDGE

10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23
24